

Policy on Acceptable Simulation Data

Simulation data are produced through numerical calculations which are based on a model. The model typically has inputs that are based on observational data but may also be based on physical theory. Simulation data may be accepted by the PDS provided they have demonstrated scientific relevance. Such archives must be documented in a way that is commensurate with documentation for observational data.

Adopted by PDS Management Council X MMM XXXX